CAMPBELL, SANTA CLARA COUNTY, CALIFORNIA.

FRIDAY, APRIL 27, 1928

In auctions at Chowchilla, Fresno, Visalia, Tulare and Hanford the past week, the California Farm Bureau Marketing Association sold 2,559 hogs for 196 consignors.

The Southern California Edison Company announces refunds amounting to $29,100 to farmers in the Visalia territory. The amount paid back represents money paid originally by farmers for extensions of power lines to farms, construction costs not having been as heavy as anticipated, the company announces.

California livestock reports just issued by the Department of Agriculture show the condition of cattle to be 92 per cent of normal and sheep 93 per cent. Average condition over a five-year period was given as cattle, 90 per cent, and sheep, 81 per cent.

Early estimates that the citrus fruit crop of the Redlands district would this year be only two-thirds as heavy as last year's, or about 4000 instead of 6000 cars, will apparently need no revision. Recently, 2214 cars had been shipped, as against 3372 cars at the same time last year. There will be less than $7,000,000 returned to the district for the citrus crop, compared with last year's total of approximately $9,000,000, according to estimates.

Emphasizing the greater returns per acre that are possible in subtropical horticulture, the University of California will again conduct a summer course in subtropicals for students, teachers and farmers at the citrus experiment station, Riverside, from July 2 to August 11, according to an announcement recently made by the college of agriculture.

Tulare county creameries are liable to be prosecuted for alleged manipulation of butterfat records, as a result of investigations conducted by operatives of the State Department of Agriculture, according to report. One creamery manager is said to have already been fined for the practice, and another similar case is pending. Tulare county has seven creameries. The move is believed to presage a general inspection of creamery records throughout the State.

"Queen Valencia," who is to preside at the eighth annual California Valencia Orange Show at Anaheim, May 24 to June 3, was chosen by 400 newspaper men at a banquet held at the Elks club at Anaheim on the night of April 2. Miss Ada Williams, as "Miss Fullerton," an American Legion entry, was voted the title and will preside at the splendid oriental court which will be set up for her at the show. Miss Virginia Pearce, as "Miss San Diego," placed second in the opinion of the newspaper men, while Miss Betty Caldwell, as "Miss Long Beach," was third. They, and six other beauties from Southern California, will act as ladies-in-waiting to "Queen Valencia."

Gov. C. C. Young a few days ago appointed his two special committees to seek a solution to California's canning peach problems, especially those affecting the 1928 crop. The crop survey committee, which is to make an exhaustive study of California peach orchards, reporting to the conference committee on the size of the 1928 crop and the magnitude of the problem to be faced, consists of six members representing the State government, the growers and the canners. Hecke and Chittfield will act for the State in the survey. The other four members of the survey committee are E. R. Williams, Modesto, California Canning Peach Growers, Inc.; Albert K. Andross, Yuba City, independent grower; A. W. Eames, San Francisco, California Packing Corporation, and F. E. Booth, San Francisco, Cannery League of California.

"Approximately 11,000,000 cases of peaches were packed last year, and about 3,000,000 left over," said Gov. C. C. Young at Sacramento last week. "It is hoped, however, that the market will be fairly clear by the next packing season. The matter to be determined first is how much more fruit can be handled this year and how much more will be on the trees. The larger the amount of first class peaches on the trees, the larger the problem will be, and we are not underestimating that problem."

News of Interest to All

The Covered Wagon Babies' Club, whose membership comprises Californians who came to this State in the historic covered wagons of early days, will hold a meeting in Sacramento on September 9th. Word to this effect was received last week by L. W. Hayes, manager of the Sacramento Tourist and Convention Bureau, from Superior Judge J. C. Needham of Modesto, Stanislaus county, an officer of the club.

The international council for educational progress is to be made a permanent organization. This was decided at a meeting of California educators gathered at Will C. Wood's office recently. Formed originally to entertain a delegation of visiting Mexican educators late this month, the organization may be extended to create an educational entente between this country and Mexico, in the opinion of Dr. C. N. Thomas, organizer of the movement.

In the comparatively short space of twenty-one years, California has reduced her infant mortality rate by 62 per cent. From a rate of 160 deaths for every 1,000 births in 1906, the rate has decreased with fair consistency to 62 per 1,000 last year—a new low record. Figures announced a few days ago by the State department of public health show that California has one of the lowest infant mortality rates in the entire United States, being ten deaths per thousand below the average for the entire United States.

The proposed $6,000,000 State Park bond issue to be used in acquiring park lands over the State and thereby reserving to future generations great natural beauties last week received the unanimous indorsement of a committee of the directors of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce. The action followed a special meeting at which Fred G. Stevenot, director of the State department of natural resources, and William E. Colby, chairman of the State park commission, stressed features of the project under which half of the purchase price of each park project must be raised from sources other than the State.

Calling upon the citizenry of California to observe American Forestry Week, April 22nd to 28th, Governor C. C. Young in a statement issued today, declared that the forests of the state are the bulwark against two major misfortunes—winter floods and summer aridity. "In California," said the Governor, "our entire water supply comes from the watersheds in our hills and mountains. If these are densely covered with brush or trees, much of the water of our winter storms sinks into the ground and is conserved for summer irrigation. But if that brush and forest is destroyed, nearly all of the water rushes directly into the streams, producing destructive floods in winter, followed by shortage of water in the summer when it is badly needed."

Two giant air beacons in widely separated portions of California flashed forth for the first time a few nights ago when Col. Charles Lindbergh pressed a telegraph key in Denver, Colo. One is situated at Mount Diablo and the other in the Merced Hills near Los Angeles. Lindbergh reached Lowry Field, Denver, in the afternoon in his monoplane from Grand Canyon, Ariz. The beacons were installed by the Standard Oil Company under the advice and supervision of the United States department of commerce. They are part of the marking of a network of national airways now in the process of delineation by the department.

City and county school superintendents of California will meet at Del Monte October 1 to 6, according to word received from William John Cooper, State superintendent of public instruction.

California's lead in ownership of automobiles is apparently to be repeated with respect to airplanes, this State now ranking first in the nation in the number of aircraft given official recognition by the United States government. California's enthusiastic adoption of this mode of locomotion for all general business and pleasure purposes was enlarged upon in a review of Federal government figures released by the North American Bond and Mortgage Company of Los Angeles. According to this survey the State of New York is a poor second in the matter of flying. The survey report discloses that California has sixty-eight licensed machines, 134 identified and 254 numbered, as compared with New York's 118, 72 and 78, respectively. Next on the list comes Texas and then Illinois and Michigan. Two States, Vermont and New Hampshire, have only two commercial planes in use.

Herbert Hoover

California's Favorite Son for the Republican Nomination for President in the Primary Next Tuesday.

WHY I AM FOR HOOVER

There are so many reasons that it is difficult to compress them into brevity, but here are ten.

BECAUSE:

- 1st. He is a self-made man in the best sense of that essentially American term; a wholesome farm childhood with a proper mixture of work and play; a thorough education, which he earned himself, a career of solid and brilliant achievement.
- 2nd. He is a great executive, whose trained efficiency and clear vision are always mobilized for emergencies whether in starving Belgium or the devastated Mississippi flood areas.
- 3rd. His public and private life is equally admirable; he stands for law enforcement, the conservation and development of our national resources, the elimination of waste, the protection of childhood.
- 4th. He conducted during and after the war the greatest charity in all history, combining sound business methods with deepest humanitarianism.

5th. With unparalleled modesty he refused the highest honors in the gift of the grateful nation and was called simply "The Friend of Belgium."

6th. Inheriting from his Quaker forebears a horror of war, and having stood in the midst of its black harvest, he can be counted on for sane and constructive efforts toward peace.

7th. He has made our Department of Commerce a tremendous force not only for commercial development, but for inter-relationships and interdependencies between nations which build up practical barriers against war.

8th. He is internationally minded as well as intensely patriotic, and has built a bridge between two continents over which better understanding will travel.

9th. He is, by reason of character, achievement and selfless service, not only the first citizen of his own nation, but of the world.

10th. He is the best qualified man for President of the United States.

—Ruth Comfort Mitchell.

YOUNG BROADCASTS FOR FOREST WEEK

Senator Sanborn Young went on the air Monday night, talking over KQW in behalf of forest conservation, which is one of his pet themes. Readers may not know it, but this is American Forest Week. Both the Federal and State governments are interested in the conservation of old and propagation of young trees. So much so that a week is set aside yearly for the dissemination of valuable information. Senator Young's talk took the form of "questions and answers." He said there are 80,000 forest fires in America annually, which burn over a tract as large as the states of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Jersey.

The loss in timber amounts to not less than $26,000,000 to say nothing about the damage done our watersheds and wild life. Here in California Senator Young declared that burning over the watersheds reduced the waterfall one-half, which is startling.

Senator Young avowed that many county and State officials of California did not seem to be aware of the loss caused by forest fires, and if they did they would be more active in preventing fires.

Senator Young spoke of the great loss to wild game by fires so he urged the sportsmen to be up and doing.

In conclusion he advanced the planting of young trees for our future forests.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Hanger spent the week-end at Seabright where they have a cottage.

L. G. PAGEANT JUNE 22-23

June 22 and 23 have been set as the dates of "Tahsilda," legend of India Pageant to be presented by the Los Gatos Chamber of Commerce this year. Committee chairmen for the important posts were selected at a meeting of the chamber Monday night and the deck cleared for action at once in all departments.

Miss Donna M. Winning will act as chairman of the general committee of management, and Major H. S. Hostetter, who was known as one of the best financial experts in the United States army, will act as treasurer.

Ralph Duncan will be manager of publicity, and Ralph has a lot of schemes up his sleeve. Mrs. Isabel Colbath will be secretary, Mrs. Sanborn Young manager of costumes, Charles Hayward in charge of music, and Mrs. Young and Henry Crall, author of the script, will be at the head of the casting committee. Fred Frederickson has the management of tickets.

Arthur Cyril, director, is making plans already for the production and many novel ideas will be presented. A Legend of India is sufficient diversity from former pageants that no one need fear to attend and not be entertained.

Ralph Gardner has a crew paving the corners at Central and Campbell avenues.

LIBRARY FUND SHOW REVEALS TALENT IN COMMUNITY OF BOOSTERS

Odd Fellow Comedians Make Big Hit

ANNUAL OPERETTA A MUSICAL TREAT

Enchanting music, charming costumes of almost a century ago, and fascinating scenes of old Louisiana gardens on the bank of the Mississippi are all part of the operetta, "In Old Louisiana," which will be presented by the music department of Campbell Union High School in the Grammar School Auditorium Friday, May 4, at 8:15.

Young Rose, a survivor of an ill fated steamboat has been reared to young womanhood by Pilot Farley, the only other survivor of the wreck. Rose is loved by Richard St. John, a planter whose lands adjoin the sugar plantation of Pilot Farley. The overseer of this plantation, Senior Scudder, loves Rose also. Because she does not return his love, Simon attempts to prove by fraud that Rose is really the daughter of an octoroon slave who perished on the ill fated trip of the Winona.

Rose does not know who her parents are but fearing that she may have negro blood she refuses to marry Richard.

Simon is assisted in his plot by Holly Simons, a dishonest lawyer, who produces a forged paper to back Simon's claims. Richard accuses Simon of the falsity of the document. A duel between Richard and Scudder follows in which Scudder, shooting before the signal, wounds Richard. Richard can not make himself take the shot, which he is allowed, with the probability of its fatality to Scudder.

The shooting draws Rose and Farley's guests to the scene of duel. Scudder prepares to tell Rose that she is an octoroon, but he is interrupted by the arrival of a sheriff and the Marquis de la Tour, who proves to be Rose's grandfather. The Marquis explains that Rose is the daughter of his son, who was lost on the Winona. The conspirators are placed under arrest and are faced by a long term of imprisonment. With the consent of the Marquis Rose and Richard are happily married.

The Little Creole, A Pilot's Life on the Mississippi, and Love brings a Song, are only a few of the many entrancing melodies in which the operetta abounds.

Miss Marian Jenkins has been coaching the large cast of principals and chorus for several weeks. The principals who will be supported by a large chorus include Stephen Merrill, Annette Merrill, Elmer Sundquist, Mervyn Nichols, Glenn Willis, Kenneth Beer, Opal Overshiner, Jack Muddock, Richard Lyndon, Nipa Lester, Bruce Cooper and Art Downing.

Grammar P. T. A.

Grammar School Parent-Teachers' Association will meet Tuesday afternoon in the kindergarten. Misses Grandemann, Nielson and Steele have charge of the program with Mrs. Barrett Co-operating for health week topics. A dance and song will be given by low third; a health song and dialogue by the kindergarten; a demonstration by first A and songs by eighth A. A movie will also be shown.

R. C. Leavenworth is moving into the J. A. Fay house on Central avenue and enlarging the store for greater business.

Chas. White is dolling up the park at the bridge and checking up on the young trees.

The community show given by the Kiwanis Club and Country Woman's Club Friday evening was one of the best entertainments given by local talent for some time past. The library building fund debt is also reduced more than $200 which is gratifying to all concerned although the promoters had hoped to wipe out the entire amount of $300.

The management wishes to extend its deep appreciation to all who helped in the cause and it is a certainty that the absentees were the real losers.

The program was opened by a group of selections by the high school band appearing for the first time in the new uniforms, white shirts and trousers girted with red sash. A. A. Thiekle, director, is just about one of the proudest men in these parts over the band's performance and well he might be, everybody is saying very complimentary things about his boys.

Miss Helen Kalas gave the program a tone of the classical when she sang in her sweet soprano a group of songs. Miss Miriam Blaine was her accompanist at the piano.

The short play, "Keeping Him Home," was a most entertaining comedy skit played by an all-star company. Each character was very well portrayed. Mrs. R. H. Hyde as Jean Todd sure kept Leon Miller, alias Neal Morgan in hot water for some time.

Dr. W. I. Merrill (John Todd) made an enviable reputation as paper hanger much to the chargin and discomfiture of his wife, Miss Annie Schultz. This crushed false pride was made the more acute by the delightful "uplift club members." Mrs. E. I. Price and Mrs. M. E. Purmort, who acted the society snobs to perfection. One of the real pleasant surprises of the evening were the Dutch clog numbers by Beverly Davis in costume.

The comedians were reserved for the final gun and their stunt went over with a bang. A group of Odd Fellows with W. R. Coupland as "dear teacher" did a school day trick that kept the audience in an uproar. Walt Smiley (Fitzu Tite), Phil La Barbera (Mack Aron), Al Covey (Cole Black), Dr. Frank Anderson (Percival Prim), Julius Bachman (Ruben Rhyme), Lester Bracket (Noisy Tenor), and George MacDonald (Scotty Mack), did their class and recitation work much to the amusement of all. The high school orchestra played several pieces during the evening.

CHORISTERS HEAR FIESTA CONTEST HITS

At the choral rehearsal last Thursday evening, the society enjoyed the privilege of hearing the Fiesta contest songs broadcasted from San Jose. Through the courtesy of Messrs. Dunlap and Smiley, local Attwater Kent agents, one of their Model 38 radio receiver sets was installed so that the local singers might not be deprived of the contest music.

The thanks of the members of the society is extended these gentlemen for their kindness.

Artist Visits Friends

Mr. G. M. Ford, a brush artist of considerable note, of Grand Rapids, Mich., is the guest of his old time friends, Miss Denton and Mrs. Hubbel. While here he will do some landscape painting of which there is such a beautiful variety. Later he will go to Carmel and Santa Cruz to do some of the views about those places.

was not due to any personal experience, but simply because I assumed that woman was almost exactly like a man.

The Cities of White Men

Those Men build many houses:
They dig the earth and they build;
They cut down the trees, and they build;
They work always—building.

From the elevation of the mountainside
I behold the clouds:
The clouds build many beautiful houses in the sky;
They build, and they tear down;
They build, and they dissolve.

The cities of white men,
They are not beautiful, like the cloud cities;
The yare not vast, like the cloud cities.
A wind-swept teepee
Is all the house I own.

Hartley Alexander in "God's Drum."

The Scandal-Monger

Scandal travels farther in a given length of time than healthy news. It is the spawn of perverted minds that breeds faster than a house fly, for it feeds on the "choice morsel."

The scandal-monger belongs to no class.
The wine-bibber and the man behind the mahogany desk, the woman hanging her frowzy head over the back fence and the society dame in the drawing room may all belong. The work of this tribe of Adam spares nothing. The name of the innocent school-girl, the minister, the bank, the law of God or man are all the same to the mind that revels in scandal.

Shakespeare knew this type, "Who steals my purse, steals trash—but he who flinches from me my good name, robs me of that which not enriches him, but makes me poor indeed."
This breed of humans has no sex; our English forced Shakespeare to call "it" a he. The tongue of the monger of scandal is a Frank instrument for its work beside the wink of the eye, the shrug of the shoulders, or the raising of the eyebrow. The cynical smile may do more damage when a good name is mentioned than words or looks.

Nature knows the rank growths of poison weeds and mushrooms and reptiles. They may have their ruses but the damage and blight they can do, so silently at work, may be compared to the scandal-minded, doing untold damage to some of the truest and most loyal children of Adam.

Give a motorist an inch, and he's likely to make a parking space out of it, says the Christian Science Monitor. Something like the woman who tried to park on Santa Cruz avenue last Saturday afternoon.

NOW THAT—This is save the forests week, much is being said by newspapers and orators and much done by the Save the Redwoods' League, Out Door Art League, leagues of Campfires and Boy Scouts and thousands who don't belong to any league to carry out the grand plan, why not expand the idea a bit? California, the playground of the United States, has many beautiful spots that can and should be saved for play grounds for coming generations. The more State parks, the better, but a campaign is necessary to educate many to that fact.

NOW THAT—Hoover appears to be the most popular Republican candidate in the field, and the only one on the California ballot at Tuesday's primaries, it is proper that this State give its favorite son a big complimentary vote to show sister states that he is backed by California voters.

NOW THAT—Fishing season opens next week the Waltonites are reminded to conserve the supply by bringing in just the big ones. Don't let the biggest one get away.

DR. BROWN TALKS HEALTH TO KIWANIANS

Edward C. Merrill, lucky boy, was selected chairman of the hour Tuesday, when the program was "Health" because he was "in the wood and coal business for his health." Both are good. Dr. Brown of San Jose health board, gave the discourse on health and disease, which has been his particular hobby for the past 15 years.

Until in recent years the valuation of health to a community was considered very little, but now very accurate tabulation of statistics is kept for the good of society as well as community. Good health districts use such data as strong advertising points and every effort is exerted to raise the standard of living and health.

The science of immunizing has reached a very high degree of efficiency and in many districts the entire population is required to take the treatment. In such places the death rate has been greatly reduced.

There are many ways of transmission of diseases and through clinics and co-operation these are being greatly overcome. Where individuals have been found to be carriers of disease, although apparently in good health themselves, health boards have kept close track of them and pass the word on as he moves that every precaution may be provided to prevent epidemics. In some cases the individual carriers co-operated with health boards by reporting his movements.

By water and milk inspection much ill health and death has been prevented. Louis Shelley of fowl fame will wield the tomahawk Tuesday. Rev. F. W. Russell of Palo Alto will speak on "Kiwanis Ideals."

Ralph Hyde reported that, with a few outlying precincts yet to hear from, the receipts of the library benefit show sponsored by this club were a little over $200.

Boy Scouts were granted the privilege of selling tickets to the San Jose Kiwanis Club show that the local troop might receive the benefit of margin offered the local Kiwanis Club.

Mrs. W. C. Bohnett went to San Francisco Monday to see the "Desert Song" operetta.

Mother's Day Cards at Smith's.

Tuesday, May 1, is the day when the Republicans of California will have an opportunity to show the rest of the states how heartily they endorse the candidate from this State by turning out and giving him a record vote. The Democratic ballot has three lists of delegates, but Hoover's are only ones on the Republican ballot, but every one qualified to vote should do so if his party has a ticket in the field.

Geo. Marsh Writes of Vacation Trip

December 1, 1927.

My Dear Friends:
Now that we are well started on the work of the new year, I must tell you about our experiences of the summer. They included some very interesting work, and some inspiring travel.

After the close of school we were glad to have the opportunity to visit more in the camps than we have time and strength for in school time. We also helped the students of our school in getting started at their summer work in the camps and particularly in starting the daily vacation Bible Schools, of which there was one in each camp. The first Sunday in July, the hottest day in Athens since the sixties, we started out at eight in the morning for a service in the large camp of Derg-houty. It was an occasion of special interest, that of the graduation of a class of 24 young people from the Intermediate to the Senior department of the Sunday School. The church was comfortably filled with some 200 people at that early hour. The service was conducted by the able superintendent, one of students, and there were addresses by the pastor at large of the camps, by the superintendent, and I spoke through an interpreter. There was a lot of good singing, but the center of it all was that splendid group of young people, with their bright faces and the world of power and usefulness potential in their lives.

After the service, we made five calls, ending at the home of the superintendent, where we enjoyed a very delicious and typical Armenian dinner.

We looked after repairs on Barton Hall—the dormitory building, and other matters, and were just about ready to leave on vacation. When Mrs. Marsh came down with sand-fly fever, but fortunately it lasted only a few days, and we were able to get away on July 19. We went by boat to Salonika, and never shall I forget that delicious coolness of the 36 hours on the sea, as we sailed along the ragged, mountainous coast of Greece, and threaded our way among the many picturesque and equally mountainous islands. We had a tiny cabin on deck, so that we got the full benefit of air, sunshine, and view. It was a small coast trading Greek boat, and the deck was crowded with freight.

At first we had to climb over great piles of telephone poles in order to get from our cabin to the center of the ship. When these had been unloaded with much shouting and gesticulation, under supervision, by the way, of a deaf and dumb foreman, the deck was crowded with great bushel baskets of fragrant peaches from the hinterland of the little city of Volo, with its orchards climbing the precipitous sides of the high hills straight up from the sea.

We stopped here at Volo for four or five hours and went on shore, where we traveled the length of the long main street on a funny little train, with a dummy engine of ancient date, and visited an excellent museum, largely filled with fine memorial slabs of the Greek classical period.

As we sailed out of the harbor, the sun was declining, and soon we were sailing into the mystery and the wonder of the dusk, winding in and out among the headlands and the islands, and all the spell of ancient Greece and the Aegean, with their wonderful tales of gods and heroes, was upon us. We sat enchanted on the prow of the ship till the stars came out and our little world which had been shut in by the sunshine was taken again into the great universe of the night. And all the time we were linking the world of ancient Greece with the world of the new Greece and the new Orient, with their awakening life, their eager to reach for better things, and their mighty challenge to the spirit of justice and fair play and friendly co-operation in the Western world.

Early the next morning, we sailed into the great harbor of Salonika, with its crowded shipping, and with the noble mass of Olympus towering above us across the bay. We spent a delightful day with our missionary friends, Mr. and Mrs. Brewster, and their two fine boys. It was also a great pleasure to meet nearly all of the missionaries of the city at a social gathering at An-

CONTRASTS IN INDIA

Sunday evening, Mr. McClesney of San Jose gave a most interesting talk on India, using as his theme: "India, Its Contrasts," from personal observation, carried on during a number of wonderful trips through the country. He described the beauties and horrors, of landscape, religion and customs in a very fascinating way.

Atolia College in the afternoon. This is the splendid college for boys transferred to Salonika from Turkey five years ago. The city also has a fine school for girls carried on by missionaries of the American Board.

The next day we started for Bulgaria. The journey up through Serbia, along the Vardar river, was full of interest. Two of the sights which most attracted our attention were, the huge water-wheels which lifted the water from the river up to the fields along the banks, making the valley a great garden, and the other was the frequent recurrence of masses of barbed wire entanglements, at bridge heads and other strategic places, relics of the horror of war ten years ago. At one place we saw an area of several acres surrounded with barbed wire, and still guarded by two soldiers, the enclosure filled with cast off war materials, tanks and so forth, rusting out in the sunshine and rain. They were a sad suggestion of the international hatreds, still so rife throughout the Balkans.

But as we had found many indications of other forces at work in Greece making for a better order, so we were to find such forces working in Bulgaria also. Let me say in passing that the League of Nations has been a real power making for peace among the Balkan states.

We spent the night in Nish, Serbia, near the Bulgarian border, and arrived in Sofia, Bulgaria, at noon the next day. Our six weeks in Bulgaria were spent partly in rest and recuperating our energies for the work of the next year, and partly in studying conditions of Bulgarian life, and missionary School of Religion. That which brought us most joy was the fact that we were able to assure the coming of three very promising young people of Bulgaria to the school the next year, making with our Russian, four students from that country.

We spent ten days in Sofia with our cousin Miss Clarke, who is at the head of the kindergarten training school. It was blissful to be in a city with cold running water in every house, and where the hottest weather seemed very comfortable compared with that which we had left. It was also an immense relief to have no mosquitos, and few flies and fleas. Though we arrived in the midst of calomining and painting, we were given a heart-warming welcome.

The Methodist and Congregational Churches of America divide the territory of Bulgaria for missionary work on the principle of true comity, the former taking North Bulgaria and the latter the Southern part of the country, but each has a church in the capital, Sofia. The first Sunday I attended church and Sunday School in the Congregational Church, and the second Sunday began by attending the very beautiful morning service in the Orthodox Cathedral. The interior walls of this church are largely covered with really fine pictures from the life of Christ, well conceived, the kind which make one think of Tissot's pictures of the life of Christ. I am told that they are done by well known artists of several different nationalities. No child could go to this church and watch the pictures without carrying away something which he could understand, and which would make a deep impression upon him. The music by organ and choir was deeply worshipful and inspiring, and the service closed with an earnest sermon.

IN the old days, the covered wagon or dobbie and the surrey furnished the transportation. Today, fast trains and ships, automobiles and air transport keep pace with the fast moving world. Times and methods change.

Business too has changed. Sales methods of even a decade ago could not compete in the business world of today. Modern salesmen use the telephone to keep in touch with the trade between trips and to sell customers located off the beaten path. Executives can no longer wait days or even hours for a reply to important questions. They rely on the telephone.

Speed, economy and dependability have made this personal means of communication with others nearby and in distant places, a valuable asset in any business.

Successful sales plans include the telephone.

Sacramento's "Days of '49" celebration, which drew visitors to California from every section of the country during 1922, is to be repeated next year. The Sacramento Whiskerino Club, the Chamber of Commerce, the Retail Merchants' Association and other civic organizations decided this week on repetition of the colorful pageant, announcing that the next twelve months will be devoted to advertising the proposed gold discovery festival all over the world. July of next year has been tentatively suggested as the time for the celebration, the plan then begin to repeat the fete in 1939 and again in 1949, the hundredth anniversary of California's picturesque gold rush.

The importance of preserving to the mountain counties for future development a reasonable percentage of the waters originating within their borders was, a few days ago, urged before the state legislative water committee by Assemblyman H. E. Dillinger of Placerville and others representing Sierra Nevada districts. Dillinger emphasized the program set forth in a bill he introduced at the last legislative session providing that 15 per cent of all water should be withheld in the mountain counties. "All we are asking is enough water to take care of our absolute needs in the future," he said.

Confusion that followed passage of the County Budget act was further cut down a few days ago when the Attorney General's office ruled that the act did not repeal the county 40-cent highway tax or the special road tax fund, amounting to two mills per dollar of assessed valuation. In response to a query from the State Department of Finance, Deputy H. H. Linney declared that these taxes merely limited the taxing powers of counties, and that the budget act was to be read in the light of these limitations. Amendment of the disputed section in the act raised the county's limit for bonded indebtedness from 50 cents to 75 cents per $100, without repealing either road tax, the opinion held.

LONE BANDIT HOLDS UP BANK AT LOS ALTOS

A lone bandit, unmasked, held up the First National Bank of Los Altos at 10 a. m. Wednesday and made his getaway with $600 in a Hudson brougham, which had been stolen in San Jose the night before. The car was later found with gas tank empty abandoned near Hayward.

Looking into the muzzle of a gun the bank employees opened the safe as commanded and allowed the bandit to snatch up the cash. He whizzed away in the Hudson pursued by W. T. Clements, assistant cashier, and Hugh Wiley, short story writer, who has a garage near the bank.

Officers in all parts of the county were notified immediately and Chief H. O. Baird was on duty looking for number 648, 663 during Wednesday morning.
